SIGNAL SERVICE REPORT:

"Fair weather, slowly rising temperature, HAZEN."

Salvation (?) Army.

The Portsmouth Times handles the "Salvation Army" without gloves and is firing "hot shell and shot" into its ranks every week. It intimates very strongly that the so-called "Salvation Army" is composed of a "miserable set of cranks and impostors" and thinks Christian people should give it no encouragement. In speaking of one of the leaders of the post at that place it says:

"We have it from persons high in the councils of the Salvation Army—good contributing members, and who have the spiritual interests of the army at heart—that Lieutenant Vance, the tall brother who has charge of the post at this place, and who has heretofore been alluded to in these columns as a gentleman who might possibly be able to do good service in the Lord's vineyard at the end of a hoe handle, was not looked upon with favor by the subordinate brothers and sisters of the flock. They say it was suggested to the brother that it would be an advantage to the army if he would take an indefinite furlough, but that he declined to do so, saying he was called of the Lord to do battle against the hosts of Belial in this wicked town, and he was going to stay till the last day, late in the afternoon. It was then proposed to cut off his rations, and starve him out, but as the starving process would necessarily involve the good sisters who are under pay, the scheme was abandoned. It was suggested to him that if he would go to Parkersburg and take care of his family perhaps the Lord would be better pleased than to see him howling around the camps of the Amalekites in Portsmouth. But lo, Vance is still with us. Vance is a stayer."

The Geological Survey is not needed, as are some other institutions in Kentucky, to furnish salaries for men not qualified otherwise to make a living. Some of the ablest scientists Kentucky has ever furnished a home for have given their time and labor to the Geological Survey for a small salary. Nathaniel S. Shaler, a native of the State, was called from the head of the survey to fill the chair of the late celebrated Agassiz in Harvard College. Dr. Loughridge, since the Senate has shown its marked hostility to the survey, has accepted a professorship in the University of South Carolina. Now the Frankfort Yeoman says that Director Proctor can at any time step into a more profitable position than that which he has filled so industriously and so intelligently for the past fourteen years. If the services of such men are in demand elsewhere, it ought to be evident that their work here is of value, and the Legislature should be slow to dispense with their services.—Louisville Commercial.

There are seventy acts of a general character and 425 local bills pending before the Legislature. As the constitutional limit of the session has not yet expired it will be impossible to dispose of them unless the term is extended. A special committee appointed for the purpose has reported that the relief sought in these bills cannot be obtained in any other way. Some of the acts pending are of great importance—such as the following: The bill to regulate the compensation of witnesses in felony cases; a bill to regulate examining courts; a bill to regulate pay of pro tem attorneys for the Commonwealth.

A bill to allow defendants to testify in felony cases; also, to amend the jury laws in criminal cases; to prevent speculation in margins; making gambling a felony; the whipping-post; to tax the sale of pistols, etc.; the revenue bill; penitentiary bill (or parole prisoners); to regulate the sale of tobacco; to amend the common school laws; regulating passenger and freight rates on railroads and Superior Court bill.

Policemen of St. Louis are a dandy set of "coppers." According to an exchange they caught the employee of a livery stable trying to get the horses out of their burning building recently, mistook them for horse-thieves and clubbed the poor hostlers almost to death. Fifty eight horses were burned up, and the hostlers were taken to the hospital.

A man could not throw a stone a distance of fifty feet in Lawrence County without hitting a candidate for some office, unless he tossed it skyward, and then the chances are it would light on the head of one as it came down.—Cynthiaburg Democrat.

BISMARCK, it is said, tried journalism in his younger days, but proved a failure, and has been down on the newspapers ever since. He is probably so thick-headed he imagines they were the cause of his failure.

The International Editorial Association is being entertained by Cincinnati this week.

CASUALTIES OF THE HOUR.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1866.

A FLOATING GRAVEYARD.

The Ice Gorge in the Missouri Causes Great Damage.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 24.—As the result of an ice gorge which closed in the Missouri river is cutting away the southern portion of an island opposite the city, on which are located the post house and smallpox hospital. There were twenty or more graves on the island, the greater number of which were those of soldiers and sailors who had been buried in their cots in the flotsam.

There is considerable excitement along the banks. Officials, however, say there is little danger of inundation. For the past week, there have been no interments in that portion of the river within a year. The city water supply also is drawn from the Kaw river. The only person living on the island are one smallpox patient and his nurse. There are no in-patients longer from the floor.

MISS MILDRED LEE.

The Daughter of Robert E. Lee Banqueted at Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 24.—A reception was given at the Galt house to Miss Mildred Lee, daughter of the late Gen. Robert E. Lee, by ex-Confederate soldiers of Louisville and their friends, and the University.

Gen. Thomas Taylor presided.

Ex-Confederate Generals Buckner, Dug, Hewitt, Echols, and many others were in attendance. The cards of invitation were distributed with the names of the 100 stars and bars. The affair was a brilliant social success, and up to a late hour the parlors and corridors of the hotel were crowded by those waiting to pay their respects to the daughter of the hero of the southern Confederacy.

shot by Tramps.

Four Women, Tex., Feb. 24.—Bad Samaritans, a wealthy farmer, living four miles east of this city, noticed two fires burning in his timber, and went out to investigate. He found a gang of tramps gathered around one fire, in which they were burning his fence posts, and another gang of tramps gathered around the other fire. One of the tramps fired at him, shooting him in the leg below the knee, breaking both bones. He returned the fire, but was disabled so badly that he had to return to the house without following the tramps. Officers have gone in pursuit of the scoundrels.

NO CHARGES.

Four Women, Tex., Feb. 24.—A reception was given at the Galt house to Miss Mildred Lee, daughter of the late Gen. Robert E. Lee, by ex-Confederate soldiers of Louisville and their friends, and the University. The decision was that no grounds existed for the imposition of any penalty. The commercial entries of the company for years past were found to be correct and in order.

JOHN B. GOUGH'S ESTATE.

BOSTON, Feb. 24.—A meeting of Boston ministers, Rev. Dr. Morse, asserted that efforts are being made by Roman Catholics in the west department to secure the appointment of a Catholic in Gen. Hancock's place instead of Gen. Howard.

AN exchange thinks an editor is a good deal like a preacher. When he writes a good thing, the people ask who wrote it for him. When the preacher says a good thing, the people wonder where he stole it. Local papers never get credit for good things—they are supposed to be stolen from foreign papers. Readers of foreign papers also accuse their editors of stealing from other papers. The old saying in regard to prophets is truly a good one.—Exchange.

A RECEPTION given by Dr. Hays, of Hayswood Seminary, Monday night in honor of his guest, Mr. Mayes, of Princeton, Ky., was greatly enjoyed by quite a number of lady and gentleman friends.

The principal feature of the evening was the rendering of quite a number of selections of both instrumental and vocal music. Mr. Mayes as a violinist, and Miss Hays as a pianist deserve special notice, and their duets were heartily enjoyed.

Just as the audience was about to leave, the door opened and Mr. Connerly, of Indianapolis, came in.

He was received with a hearty welcome, and the audience was greatly pleased to see him.
